The Sky's the Limit Part 1

Read the passage below and answer the questions that follow.

Once upon a time, in the small town of Meadowbrook, lived a 2nd grader named Alex. He was an ordinary boy with an extraordinary secret – he had the power to fly! Every time he flapped his arms, he would soar high up into the sky like a bird.

One sunny day, Alex's teacher, Mrs. Anderson, announced that the class would be going on a field trip to the city zoo. The excitement filled the classroom as the students chatted about all the animals astonishment.

As the bus pulled into the zoo, Mrs. Anderson guided the students through the entrance. Alex couldn't contain his excitement any longer. He quietly slipped away from the group and found a secluded spot. With a determined look on his face, he flapped his arms, and in an instant, he was soaring above the zoo!

From his bird's-eye view, Alex could see everything: the elephants playing in the water, the monkeys swinging from tree to tree, and the giraffes peacefully grazing on leaves. He swooped down close to the enclosures, feeling the rush of wind against his face.

Suddenly, he remembered his classmates waiting for him. Alex landed gently in front of the zoo's entrance and rejoined the group, pretending nothing had happened. Mrs. Anderson led the class on an exciting tour of the zoo, where they learned about various animals and their habitats.

At lunchtime, while the class sat on a grassy patch enjoying their sandwiches, Sam couldn't help but ask, "Alex, did I just imagine it, or did you really fly?"
